Two student concerts will be presented at 4 p. m. Tuesday and Wednesday in the Administration Building auditorium, featuring contemporary wind ensemble music Tuesday and contemporary solo music on Wednesday.

Directed by Mrs. Margaret E. Moore and technical direction by Dr. Wendell Cain, the three-act play will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday in the Branding Iron Theatre.

Admission to the Opera Workshop's musicals is $1.00 for adults and 50 cents for students and children.

Prices for the drama, "The Hasty Heart," will be 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for high school students and children.

Reservations for the play may be made through the WT speech department.

DON BRIGGS TO OPERATE POOL

The Canyon City Commission Monday night employed Don Briggs, assistant coach at Canyon High School, to operate the city-owned swimming pool this summer.

Briggs operated the pool last summer, after the opening in July.

The commission has not set the date for the pool opening, but indicated it would be around the first of June. They have not set the prices of season tickets or single admissions.

Briggs said he would start swimming lessons for all ages during the first week in July. The lessons will last six weeks and will end with a water show, he said.

In other business, the city commission voted to name an alley located in the double block between 25th and 26th Streets, south of the college.

The street will be named South College Street, as asked in a petition by property owners living along the alley.

The alley has been paved as a street, with extra right of way deeded to the city by the involved property owners.

REPORT WRECK CHIEF ADVISES

Chief of Police George Roden has asked that all persons involved in a traffic accident inside the city report the accident as soon as possible.

He said that many persons have been failing to report the accidents to the police.

A city ordinance specifies that all traffic accidents occurring within the city limits must be reported immediately if there is considerable property damage or if an injury is suffered. If property damage is light or there are no injuries, the accident must be reported within 24 hours.

Roden advises that motorists should not move their cars until after an investigation has been made.

Roden said that violations of the ordinance regarding the reporting of accidents will be filed upon.

Implement Demonstration

More than 250 farmers and interested citizens attended the first annual Farm Machinery Field Day last Saturday, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce and Canyon implement dealers. Termed a great success, a bigger show is planned next year.

BANK DAY DRAWING MAY 5

Registration cards for Canyon Bank Day were distributed to participating merchants early this week, and patrons of the stores may begin registering at any time.

The first drawing for a "bank account" will be May 5 at 3 p. m. The name drawn will be announced at that time in all of the participating stores, and to win, the person whose name is called must be in one of the stores at that time.

Twenty-three merchants are participating in Canyon Bank Day, according to Chamber of Commerce Manager Roland Black. He asked that any other merchants desiring to participate in the plan contact him.

Rules of Canyon Bank Day provide that anyone 18 years or older may register in any one of the participating stores on special registration blanks. Those under 18 who are married may also register.

Black emphasized that those who want to register should sign up only one time. He said it made no difference which store a person registers in. Black said he would keep a file of registrants, and only one card will be put in the drawing for one person.

In the event the winner is not present in a store when his name is called, a $5 check will be sent by mail and the remainder of the "bank account" will be added to the following week's drawing.

Those stores participating in Canyon Bank Day are Buffalo Grocery, T. A. Black, Canyon Drug, Canyon News, Western Auto, Dan's Store, The Pharmacy, Cheatham's, Bellah Super Market, Thompson Hardware, Jennings Men's Wear, Taylor-Evans Farm Store, The Varsity Theater, Stevenson Pontiac, Jennings Dress Shop, Traders Recreation Club, J. J. Walker Prescription Lab, Warren's, Cowboy Grill, Cooper's Market, Poole's Farm and Ranch Supply, Taylor and Sons Country Store and Consumers Fuel and Elevator Association. M. E. Moses is not participating, as previously announced.

College Tells Plans for 4-Lane Street, Widening Projects, Road Improvement

Construction of a four-lane street north of the Administration Building, bisecting the campus of West Texas State College, has been authorized by the Board of Regents of Texas State Teachers Colleges.

Advertising for bids will be made for the sale of the old power plant, construction of the new street, widening two streets entering the main quadrangle in front of the Administration Building, and topping all other campus streets, according to President James P. Cornette.

Transfer of operation from the old 40-year-old plant to a new building behind Conner Hall has been completed, and the old building and its three boilers will be sold before the new street is laid.

Plans are to use the present street behind the Administration Building, running from Highway 87 through the campus to 26th St., for traffic east, and the addition of a street, separated by a concrete center, for westbound traffic.

The two streets from Fourth Ave. to the Administration Building will be widened to allow angle parking on both sides. A driveway will also be constructed to the new power plant.

Dr. Cornette said the board of regents had also adopted a resolution locating the proposed football stadium on the college farm.

British Official Will Speak Wednesday

Views and Comments

In last week's Canyon News there were several letters on the subject of Elvis Presley, rock and roll, teenagers, et al. In a couple of instances, the writers asked what we are doing for the teenager, and suggest that we should get them something to do.

Mike Wheeler wrote, "Speaking for the teen-agers of Canyon, 'What is there to do for recreation?' Two things, go to the movies or drag fourth avenue."

Another writer, who asked that his name be withheld, wrote, "If you had wanted to help us why didn't you get us something to do?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Let's examine just what has been done, and what is planned in the way of recreation.

Beginning last year, the City of Canyon started Conner Park with its swimming pool, playground equipment for children and picnic area for everyone.

The pool and its necessary facilities and equipment cost a cool $55,000. Now, we all know the city built it, and that means the money came from the taxpayers in the city.

The park itself has cost an additional $9,800 and is costing more all the time because of necessary maintenance and additional landscaping. The city, or rather the taxpayer, foots the bill for that, too.

An additional $2,000 has been spent on playground equipment. That was provided by civic clubs.

☆ ☆ ☆

This summer, the city plans to have available the swimming pool for swimming in the afternoon and evenings. During the mornings, swimming lessons for all age groups will be available.

During the hours when the pool is open, shuffleboard alleys will be available.

The city plans to allow dancing on the roof of the bathhouse for parties with proper sponsorship.

There will be two ball diamonds down at the park this summer, and one will be lighted if the city can find $2,500 for the lighting system. The city was also planning two tennis courts, but no money is available for the additional construction.

☆ ☆ ☆

The Chamber of Commerce civic development committee was given the assignment of making a survey of the need for a recreation program for Canyon after the chamber had several requests for such a program.

The committee had several meetings and heard a speech made by H. W. S. Van Arsdale, field representative of the Southwest District of the National Recreation Association. He told them that Canyon has a fine start on a recreation program and it only needs expanding. However, expansion costs more money.

The committee reported its finding to the chamber board of directors, and the board made several recommendations to the city commission. The city commission has not had a meeting since the letter was written.

The chamber board made the following recommendations:

1. That the City Commission appoint a recreation board of five, seven or nine members.
2. That this board be given the responsibility and authority to work out an adequate recreation program.
3. That the board present a complete set of plans and recommendations to the City Commission, including recommended facilities to be built or used and a plan for financing the complete program.
4. That the City Commission work out the necessary amendments to our present tax structure to support the program and that the proposed tax increase, if one is needed, be submitted to the voters of the city for their approval or disapproval.

The members of the chamber of commerce civic development committee are the Rev. T. Winston Wilbanks, chairman, Clark Jarnagin, Bernard Warren, Gene McGlasson, Bud Parker, Roy Byrd Jr., Mrs. R. A. Neblett, Mrs. Clay Cooper, Mrs. Riley Troth, Mrs. L. M. Cousins, T. A. Black, H. R. Fulton Jr., Dr. J. A. Hill, Dr. Dudley Moore, Frank Kimbrough, Dr. C. R. Nester, Gene Root and Sheriff L. S. Johnston.

☆ ☆ ☆

It's right that teenagers should ask, "What is there to do for recreation?" and ". . . why didn't you get us something to do?"

And it's also right that the citizens of the city ask, "What are you willing to do for yourselves?"

Are the teenagers of Canyon willing to help themselves? Are they willing to do a little looking of their own to find something to do? Are they willing to work toward providing something for themselves, if they are given help?

Over in Matador, just three weeks ago, 50 teenagers got together and formed a youth center. They elected officers, set up by-laws and rigid rules and set membership dues at $1.50 a year. Contributions were accepted to provide memberships for those who absolutely cannot afford the dues.

The most serious problem confronting the young organization right now, according to The Matador Tribune, is a source of revenue to pay monthly rent on a building that will be used for the youth center.

The youngsters are busy soliciting furniture and equipment to equip their center. They're looking for cast-off furniture that is in repairable condition. They need books and magazines, ping-pong tables, card tables and chairs.

The by-laws of their organization provide that two responsible adults will supervise the center all during the time it is open.

I had one suggestion from a teenager that Canyon needs a center something like the student center at the college, so that teenagers will have some place to gather.

The plan used in Matador provides such a center, but it requires something that a plan such as suggested by the Chamber of Commerce does not—it requires that the teenagers, those for whom the center is set up, pitch in and help themselves.

By the way, teachers in the school tell me that the pupils have so much to do in the way of extracurricular activities, that they don't have enough time to study or to do justice to their schoolwork.

☆ ☆ ☆

We have several questions asked now. From the teenagers: Why don't you give us something to do. From the Chamber of Commerce: We need a recreation program, and will the City Commission provide the money for it. And from me: Are the teenagers willing to help provide recreation for themselves?

How about it? Instead of worrying about whether Elvis Presley is a perverted individual or God's gift to the modern day world, can the people of Canyon, the oldsters and the youngsters, come up with a set of answers that will solve the problem of giving teenagers something to do?—BC

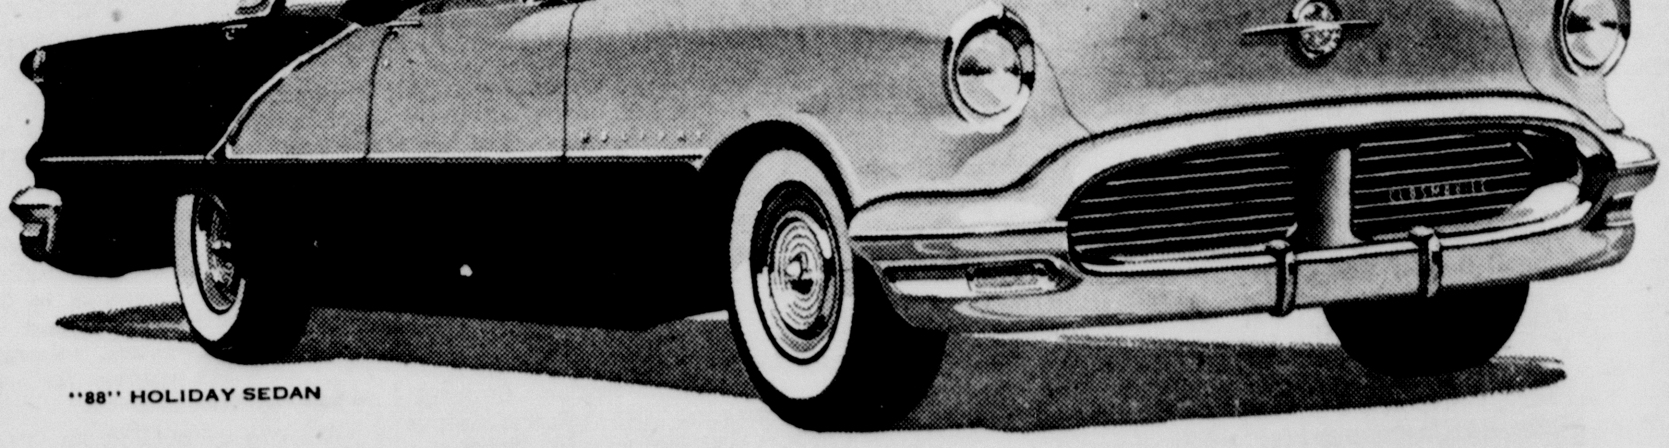
IT'S TORQUE THAT MAKES THE WHEELS GO 'ROUND!



"88" HOLIDAY SEDAN

. . . And the High-Torque Output of Oldsmobile's Famous Rocket Engine Is Instantly Translated Into Outstanding Performance at the Rear Wheels!

Let's talk torque! In plain language, torque is "twist." It's the force that makes the wheels go 'round.

So it follows . . . the more torque your engine has, the more go power your car has . . . the more getaway at the light . . . the more action on the open road!

That's why, when it comes to power, there's nothing like Oldsmobile's Rocket T-350 Engine — because the Rocket is torque TNT! Figures prove it: 350 pound-feet at 2800 rpm (340 pound-feet at 2400 rpm in "88" models).

OLDS CHASSIS IS ENGINEERED TO HANDLE HIGHER TORQUE!

Oldsmobile has the chassis to take Rocket torque . . . a skillfully engineered Oldsmobile chassis with an extra-sturdy, dynamically balanced drive shaft, and an extra-rigid frame that resists twisting and weaving.

What's more, the Rocket's got horsepower — *to spare! And with Oldsmobile, it's high usable horsepower . . . a by-product of engine design aimed straight at the wheels — design that translates horsepower into terrific torque at normal engine rpm's.

TOP TORQUE MEANS TIP-TOP PERFORMANCE!

The result is higher torque — silken, responsive Rocket action. Touch the accelerator — ever so gently — you "go" . . . and we do mean "GO"! You thrill to smoother, swifter bursts of power for everyday use — spectacular performance, when you need it . . . when you want it.

Any way you look at it, you can't top the Rocket for thrills for the money — or for top return when it's time to trade. Stop by soon. Rocket 'round the block . . . or around the town if you like!

OLDSMOBILE'S ROCKET — a double winner in 1956 Mobilgas Economy Run. Get the feel of top horsepower, top torque in the engine that's an economy champion, too!

*240 hp. in Ninety-Eight and Super 88 models; 230 hp. in "88" models.

Dear Editor:

Please allow me to congratulate you upon your stand against the "rock and roll" of Elvis Presley.

You are a young man and have a great task cut out for you. One can judge that easily by the tirade of fury joured out upon you in the April 18 issue of The Canyon News which has always upheld the very highest standards of morals and decency. So, to you I say, keep up the good work.

Some of the people who went to see this young man perform in Amarillo tell me they never saw a more disgusting performance of contortions and downright vulgar actions put on by anyone. And music—his version can't be classed as such.

It's a pity for the young minds of immature teen agers to see and hear such rot gut, and believe me that is all it is.

Who is to blame? I think you know the answer.

Don't worry about the brick bats and the smearing tactics as used by your accusers. Just consider the source and go on as you have started.

Some illusions about education in the recent "Letters to the Editor." What is education any way? Which reminds me of my first day in college (East Texas State at Commerce) when Dr. W. L. Mayo, now deceased, college president, met his class of young enrollees and told us what education meant and what it would mean to us if we put it to good advantage. Then he added, "There is such a thing as an educated fool" and he elaborated upon that, too. Then he shook his stately head and said in all sincerity, "Don't become an educated fool." I had rather have honor and respect for my fellowman by setting an example before him that was fit for him and his children to follow than to have all the college degrees in the world and not have common sense enough to know how to use them to the betterment of humanity, and, too, not to have a vision of the finer and cultural elements in human nature.

Dear Editor:

This is an answer to the editorial you wrote concerning "rock and roll" music as a possible cause of juvenile delinquency.

You mention the songs on television. In the first place, the current songs on television are put on and chosen by adults. The teenagers have little or nothing to do with it. Many of the currently popular songs are, if you will notice, largely instrumentals, usually from shows. Take, for instance, "Love is a Many Splendored Thing" from the show of the same name, "Tara's Theme" from "Gone With the Wind," theme from "Helen of Troy" and others. Do you think the story material from these shows which are written and produced by, in addition to starring, adults is appropriate for teenagers? Yet, these are considered the best.

You say, "The words to the songs aren't suggestive. They come right out and say things that usually aren't said in polite society, nor indeed, society at all." Most kids don't notice much about the words. All they are interested in is the rhythm. Since you happen to notice so much about the words and derive your own low conceptions of them, what makes you think that everybody has his or her mind on such a low level?

You mention watching the movements of Elvis Presley next time he is on T. V. We wouldn't know much about the "bumb and grind" of burlesque queens, and we seriously doubt that many parents do either. Anyone who has had such experience, we feel, has no business writing about movements of others, namely Elvis Presley, who is at least respectable enough to be seen on T. V. instead of cheap joints and dives.

As for the disc jockey clubs, they're a good idea, in our opinion. There, the kids are choosing the music and there aren't many adults who wouldn't enjoy these programs. On a whole the music is all enjoyable. But "you can't please all the people all the time."

Do you think it better that the teenagers hear rock and roll music with a fast rhythm or that they listen to drippy sentimental songs which could cause a lot more harm?

How about the music when you were our age? That was about the time the "man with the golden arm," Frank Sinatra, was making such a hit with the bobby soxers with his weave and twist and honey-dripping voice causing them to swoon and scream. What about such songs as "Bell Bottom Trousers" and Little Minnie Hood and Her Boyfriend, Tommy Wood? Remember the suggestiveness of the antics of Mae West? We think your memory has grown short through the years to the extent that you forget the Charleston and short, tight dresses of the twenties and the movies and songs during the war.

As for the "rock and roll" being one of the causes of juvenile delinquency, it would do a lot more good if a lot more people were interested in cleaning up the slums and giving those kids a chance for a normal life. A lot of our music comes from the slums. Take for instance, blues and jazz from the slums of New Orleans. Of course, we realize it's a lot easier to pick on a bunch of teenagers who happen to like "rock and roll," and Elvis Presley than to start something to help clean up these slums. We think you will find that the main cause of juvenile delinquency is the neglect of people who care more about what kind of music the kids like than where they live, what they eat, how they dress, and places they go.

It also seems to us that a steady diet of milk and honey to a starving, thirsting man would tend to make him ill.

Dear Editor:

This is in reply to your letter that appeared in the Canyon News. We admire you for standing up for what you believe; however, after reading this letter, we think you will also see our point of view.

You made the statement that the music we listen to now has no detectable tune, and is only a racket. We believe that you have overlooked the fact that the music you wrote about is the kind we choose to hear.

You have given the public the idea that the only kind of music we listen to is rock-and-roll. If you will listen to the top ten this next week, you will hear some tunes that certainly couldn't be called a racket, such as "The Poor People of Paris," "The Eleventh Hour Melody," and "Lisbon Antigua." You see, we do have a variety of interests!

We believe that the dangerous situation you talked about is created more by the slow, moony type of song. The fast beat keeps you moving and doesn't give you time to think about anything but just having fun. The slow beat is strongly inclined to get you in the mood or situation you implied.

We also disagree with your viewpoints on juvenile delinquency. You commented that one of the possible reasons for it was the rock-and-roll songs and singers; but, I don't believe you will find much trouble going on where a group of teenagers are together listening to records or watching the singers on T. V. I do think, though, that the same group might turn into delinquents if they didn't have something to occupy their time. As long as there is a common interest, kids don't have to stir up trouble for fun.

About the songs saying indecent things, all people don't just look for things like that. It never occurred to us that the songs said anything wrong. It takes people like you to call attention to things like that.

We agree that the music we listen to doesn't compare with the kind you listened to; however, would you like for the world to stand still? Remember, music, like time and people, has to move forward. I seriously doubt that the music you enjoyed as a teenager was like the kind your parents had listened to.

All teenagers don't like rock-and-roll music or Elvis Presley as you seem to think. I don't believe there is any kind of music everyone enjoys.

Just because we don't like opera, we don't try to keep other people that do from enjoying it. Maybe we think it is only a racket, but we don't try to run it in the ground!

In conclusion, we would like to bring out the fact that it takes all kinds of music, like all kinds of people, to make up the world!

Dear Editor:

I read your column on rock and roll music awhile back and I don't agree with you. I have before me now a copy of your latest blast at Elvis Presley. I, myself can't see why you are getting all shook up over the deal its just something thats going to have to pass on sooner or later. I think it was very disrespectful of you to talk about Mr. Presley like you did, because probably if you could sing you would be right along side of him .If you would keep your mind off everything that he does, is bad you would more than likely like him as I do. I would like to know something, how do you know what the movements of burlesque queens are like? I presume that you have seen one or you wouldn't know. Am I correct, if not I stand corrected myself. I hope I have made no hard feelings what so ever, if so I am sorry because I did not intend to. Mr. Editor I would like to pass on to you a very good piece of advice I received not to long ago from a very swell man. He now lives in your town. Judge others as you would have them judge you.

SECONDHAND LUXURY—The lacy creation is a Jacques Fath original, marked down from $375. The gray satin originally sold for $900 and will go for something less than a third of its original price. Such secondhand "bargains" as these are available at a dress shop in New York City, operated by Mrs. Florence Morris Barry, who is shown displaying the dresses. Her customers are members of the "carriage trade" who fancy an original creation, even if it is a hand-me-down.

Outstanding SCD's Honored in June

COLLEGE STATION—Texas' three outstanding soil conservation districts and three champion farmer-conservationists for the year ending March 31 will be announced during June, says Jack Burton, extension soil conservation specialist.

Barton has received word from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, sponsor of an annual national program of conservation awards, that the judges have been named for making the Texas selections.

They are Louis Merrill, Texas State Soil Conservation Board, Temple, chairman; Bill Shommette, farm program director for Radio Station KENS, San Antonio; W. W. Cardwell, manager, Luling Foundation, Luling and Clark Bolt, farm editor, Waco News-Tribune.

The three selected districts will receive bronze plaques for permanent possession and each will name a member of its board of supervisors and the outstanding farmer-cooperator who will be guests of the sponsor on an all expense trip to the sponsor's farms in Arizona next November or December.

Because of its extensive agricultural industry and activity, Texas is divided into three geographic units for program purposes instead of the single unit in most other states.

Barton says the current program is the third to be sponsored on a national basis. The fourth begins on May 1 and ends on April 30, 1957, with similar awards offered.

BOYCE HOUSE

A good many years ago, when I was editor of the Ranger Daily Times, I added to my revenue by writing articles, in spare time, for true crime magazines.

One Sunday, I drove to Stephenville to obtain an account of the Snow murder case of some years previous from Sam Russell, district attorney during the trial. He gave a graphic and detailed description of the triple murders—(the defendant's wife, mother-in-law and brother-in-law)—and I returned to Ranger; then all alone in the newspaper office that night I wrote the story of the crime, beginning with the findings, by two trappers, of a tow-sack, in the cellar of an abandoned house.

They could tell that there was something in the sack so they carried it into the daylight and opened it—and a pair of eyes stared at them! The sack contained a human head.

Step by step, I recorded the story, through the climax when the suspect was taken to a lonely hilltop at midnight and there confirmed his guilt by revealing the hiding place of the headless corpse.

As I was writing, the quiet of the newspaper office was broken, now and then, by the mysterious noises of the night—the popping of walls, the squeaking of a door, the scurrying of a rat. These sounds, combined with the grisly events being pounded out on the typewriter after being re-enacted by my imagination, had my nerves in such a state that I couldn't go home—where there was no one—until I'd gone to Swaney's drug store for a little visit with the hangers-on and got back to the reality of the present.

Many years ago, when the Ku Klux Klan flourished in Texas, there was a man in Eastland who owned a dog which was his inseparable companion. The Klan membership was secret, or was supposed to be. But when the hooded order held a big parade, that dog followed at the heels of a marcher—and everyone on the sidewalk knew who one member was.

In a hot political campaign in Eastland County, W. J. Barnes was running for prosecuting attorney against a lawyer who had represented just about all the criminals. In joint debate, Barnes referred to his opponent as "a legal scavenger." The other man winced; the crowds laughed; and Barnes was elected.

Buffalo Poisoning To Start Soon; Fishing Should Be Better in Lake

By the middle of next month, fishing should be better at Buffalo Lake than it has in several years.

Sometime this month or early in May, the state's largest selective kill of rough fish is planned for the lake, according to Marion Toole, chief aquatic biologist for the Game and Fish Commission.

The project will be handled by Aquatic Biologist Leo Lewis of Wichita Falls, who pioneered the routine whereby non-game fish may be exterminated from lakes or streams without harming game fish.

The first main target of the clearing of rough fish from Buffalo will be shad, according to Game Warden Woody Pond. He said that carp will be the second target of the killing crews.

Soon after the poisoning is over, fishing should be better than ever, Pond said. "Within 10 days, maybe five, the fishing should really be good," he said.

Rotenone will be used to kill the rough fish in the lake. Pond said that after years of experimenting, the biologists have found the rotenone concentration that will kill each species of fish.

If the biologists wish to kill shad, as they do at Buffalo, the correct concentration is spread through the lake then only the shad are affected.

Pond said that a few game fish might be bothered when the chemical is spread, but many of them will be saved.

When the biologists begin the kill, the first area to be covered will be Tierra Blanca Creek where it feeds into the lake. He said all the fish in the creek will be poisoned, and the game fish will be removed.

The game fish will be put into the lake proper and the rough fish will be skimmed from the creek and buried.

Pond said the chemical swells the gills on the fish, stopping their breathing action. If fish are removed from the poisoned water and put in fresh water, they revive immediately, he said.

After the creek has been poisoned, the biologists will begin on the lake proper. They expect to complete the job in one day, using eight or 10 crews.

The chemical, which is a powder, is mixed with water to the proper concentration on barges which will be anchored in the lake. Motor boats with 200-gallon tanks will fill up at the barges then spread the poison throughout the lake.

Pond said the boats have fixtures that spray the poison out through the motor, spreading the chemical evenly.

The fish which have been poisoned begin rising to the surface within about 10 minutes. When all have had time to get to the top, crews will skim all the poisoned fish off the water and they will be disposed of.

Pond said that some of the crews will remain at the lake to take care of the poisoning of the carp.

The poisoning cannot begin until the water temperature is between 58 and 65 degrees, Pond said. Late last week, the temperature was between 52 and 54 degrees.

The killing job at Buffalo is expected to take at least 1500 pounds of rotenone, and that amount was ordered recently by the Forest Service, according to an announcement from the game and fish commission.

The renovation is under the joint sponsorship of the commission and the Forest Service.

THE CANYON NEWS

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

The Passage of the Farm Bill

The last few days before the final vote on the farm bill were very tense. The Administration was pushing for defeat of the bill if certain measures could not be removed from it.

Administration forces had been hard at work, but plenty of work had been done on the other side of the aisle also. As the time drew near for the final debate the picture began to clear up and it was obvious that the bill would pass by a margin of some 40 to 50 votes.

The debate was limited to two hours. The Speaker was kind enough to permit me to occupy the Chair during a portion of the debate, and from that vantage point you can certainly feel the pulse of Congress. Actually the debate didn't change one vote.

Every Member to the man had weighed and re-weighed the provisions of the measure and knew exactly what he was going to do.

When this occurs, continued debate makes the Members restless and they remind you of a bunch of cattle milling around in pens just before a storm.

The efforts of the Administration forces to stem the tide were gallant but futile, and there was little doubt as to the fate of the farm bill after the first twenty minutes of debate. The Administration forces wanted to strike several provisions from the bill including the mandatory supports on feed grains, including grain sorghums.

The effort was defeated by a vote of 238 to 181. The vote on the final passage of the bill was 237 for and 181 against.

It immediately went to the Senate and the Senate acted on it the same day.

Many Members during the debate stated that the President had threatened to veto the bill and would do so. My answer to that argument was that if the bill was not sent to the White House no one would ever know whether the President was bluffing or not when he indicated he would veto it.

It was my prediction that the President would not veto the bill because I felt that he understood the situation facing the American farmer and would sign it.

LIPSTICK LOGIC

BY LOUISE ALLEN

How many times have you got dolled up for a party — only to knock your hat askew as you step into the car? Or worse, get where you're going and peel it off as you emerge from the driver's seat?

This is as upsetting an experience as being pinched by one's playful spouse when already out of temper, or racing with closing time at the grocery store on Saturday night and losing.

Men have a tendency to find this hat-knocking very funny. Why we'll never know, but it amuses them to see a dressed-up female have her dignity and self-assurance thus undermined.

That's why we enjoyed a news item we ran across the other day. Seems the trend toward lower and longer car lines has finally got the boys upset, too. So now they're wearing "flattops" in some areas for better clearance. These soft felt fedora-type hats, says the fashion note, have an absolutely flat crown that's a full inch lower than the long-popular "crease-crowns." And even the men who don't own cars are buying them.

We don't say this solves anything for us women. Matter of fact, even our turbans and pillboxes, which can hardly get any flatter, are bad about grazing off as we bow to escape from the family four-door. But it is kind of heartening to find we haven't imagined this crisis — that even masculine vanity is piqued by losing a headpiece just as its owner plans a majestic entrance or exit from his low-slung automobile.

There's only one real drawback to our pleasure: Western men may never know about the new trend in men's hat styles. Furthermore, by the time they get their own consent to forego the ten-gallon Stetson in favor of a flat-top, the style in automobiles may have changed completely.

The PONTIAC Catalina
A GENERAL MOTORS MASTERPIECE—FAIRLY PRICED AND FAIRLY SOLD!
STEVENSON PONTIAC
1618 Fourth Ave. Canyon, Texas

To The Honorable E. E. Jordan, District Judge
And The Honorable Commissioners Court
Randall County, Canyon, Texas
Gentlemen:

In accordance with my duties as County Auditor of Randall County, I have prepared the attached report of the financial operations of Randall County for the year 1955, and the condition of the funds at December 31, 1955, and present the attached report, which in my opinion reflects in a fair manner such operations and condition.

The fee offices were audited on a continuous basis during the year, such audit including examination of the transactions in the special accounts of each fee office. Treasurer's receipts and disbursements are audited monthly and monthly reports submitted to the Commissioners Court.

In auditing these fee offices, any shortage or discrepancies noted during the year were discussed with the officials and if correction was made, no exception is shown in the fee office reports. All County officials who receive and disburse County funds carry special bank accounts for temporary deposit for such funds until proper disposition can be made.

Total County expenditures for 1955 amounted to $431,792.02 compared to $337,057.98 for 1954. Included in the expenditures of 1955 was the amount of $128,558.16 for paving of Farm to Market roads and other road construction work. The unexpended cash balance at the close of 1955 was $196,351.43. This did not include funds in the amount of $188,331.44 held in escrow to be distributed to the funds, January 1, 1956.

The analyses and schedules in this report cover the financial affairs of the County to the extent we deemed sufficient.

I wish to thank the County officials and employees for their cooperation and courtesies extended to the County Auditor.

Sincerely yours,
E. T. CUMMINGS
RANDALL COUNTY AUDITOR

TORNADO INFORMATION

WHERE TORNADOES CAN OCCUR:

Any place in the United States at any time of the year. They happen most frequently in the midwestern, southern and central states from March through September.

HOW OFTEN DO THEY OCCUR:

The records show that the average number of days with tornadoes varies from about 12 per year in parts of the Mid-West to less than one per year in the Northeastern and far Western states.

HOW TO RECOGNIZE A TORNADO:

Usually observed as a funnel-shaped cloud, spinning rapidly, and extending toward the earth from the base of a thundercloud. When close by, it sounds like the roar of hundreds of airplanes.

TORNADO "WEATHER":

Hot, sticky days with southerly winds and a threatening, ominous sky. However, many such days occur without tornadoes.

CLOUDS:

Familiar thunderstorm clouds are present. An hour or two before a tornado, topsy-turvy clouds appear sometimes bulging down instead of up. The clouds often have a greenish-black color.

PRECIPITATION:

Rain, frequently hail, preceding the tornado, with a heavy downpour after it has passed.

TIME OF DAY:

Mostly between 3 and 7 P.M., but they have occurred at all hours.

DIRECTION OF TRAVEL:

In most cases they move from a westerly direction, usually from the southwest.

LENGTH OF PATH:

Usually 10 to 40 miles (the average length is 16 miles), but they may move forward for 300 miles.

WIDTH OF PATH:

The average width is about 400 yards, but they have cut swaths over a mile in width.

SPEED OF TRAVEL:

25 to 40 miles per hour average, but they have varied from 5 to 139 miles per hour.

WIND SPEED:

Estimated as high as 500 miles per hour within the tornado.

CAUSES OF DESTRUCTION:

(1) Violent winds which uproot trees, destroy buildings, and which create a serious hazard from objects blown through the air.

(2) Differences in air pressure which can lift automobiles and can cause buildings to collapse.

Weather Rough For Gardeners

COLLEGE STATION—The cool weather and high winds along with short moisture have delayed the planting of spring vegetable crops both in commercial fields and home gardens.

But a few good spring days, points out B. G. Hancock, extension horticulturist, can work wonders and cause a scramble among gardeners to get vegetables planted.

Here are suggestions from Hancock on varieties which should be planted now. For the bush snap beans he likes Topcrop for central and west Texas; Tendergreen for east and south Texas and Wade as an early high yielding variety for most sections of the state.

For pole type snap beans, he recommends Bluelake and Kentucky Wonder. The first is good for canning and freezing while the latter must be harvested in the right stage of maturity or quality will be low.

He likes Early Prolific Straightneck, an excellent yellow squash of good quality, and White Bush Scollop for the summer squashes. He suggests trying a few hills of cucumbers along the garden fence.

By letting the vines run on the fence, harvesting is easier and the cucumbers produced are cleaner. For pickling, he suggests Ohio MR 17 which is resistant to mosiac and Earliest of All, an old variety.

For slicing, Stono, a new release from the USDA for the South and Gulf Coast regions which is resistant to downy mildew or A.&C. or Colorado.

If there is room in the home garden for cantaloupes, try a few hills of Smith's Perfect or Rio Gold, a variety developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station. Suggested sweet corn varieties are Ioana and Calumet and for those who like okra, Louisiana Green Velvet and Clemson Spineless are recommended.

Special care will have to be given tomatoes if a good crop is produced before hot weather. Use a locally adapted variety and set only strong, stocky plants and give them a fast start by using a starter solution when they are transplanted.

Watch for cutworms and if they are present, use a 5 percent DDT or a 10 percent chlordane or 20 percent toxaphene dust either in the furrow before planting or dust around the plants.

See your local county extension agents for helpful hints on home gardening.

County Appeals Livesay Award

In their regular meeting Monday, the Randall County Commission voted to appeal the award made Jack Livesay by a special condemnation commission last Wednesday.

The commission, composed of Clarence Kincaid, George Schaeffer and Harry Hungate, awarded Livesay $4372.56 for his property needed for right of way for the widening of the Happy Highway.

The county's appraisers, Lanham Nelson and A. C. Youngblood, testified in the hearing last week that Livesay should be awarded $3081.06. Livesay testified that he thought the county should award him enough to pay for moving his house further from the right of way and to pay damages for trees and other improvements taken by the highway.

The commissioners also ordered the filing of a condemnation suit against Alvin Hacker for right of way needed for the expressway. Hacker owns land about six miles north of Canyon just south of Memory Gardens.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Ferguson, owners of the Lakeside Trailer Park south of Amarillo, appeared before the commissioners to discuss a settlement for their property needed for right of way on the expressway.

Bill Overstreet and Johnny Cravens of Southwestern Exterminators in Amarillo appeared before the commission offering to handle pest extermination in the courthouse for a fee of $10 a month. The request was held for further consideration.

The commission ordered payment for expressway right of way to R. H. Jennings, Pete Georganntones, Fred R. Cudd, Mrs. Hedwig Pomerenk and Garth Ingram. The right of way obtained is just south of Amarillo.

By DOVIE CHERRY

This is a riddle (?).

I am long and white, I have windows and doors, a big board sign in front and I'm open from 2 to 5:30 p. m. What am I?

Sorry, time's up. I am the Randall County Library. My neighbor is Stevens' Floral Shop, and I face my cousin, the Neblett Hospital where everyday I see people going for physical aid and comfort.

I say the hospital is my cousin because you know I give a kind of aid and comfort too, not physical but mental. It is a sort of mental enjoyment and enrichment.

Oh, I'm just chucked full of all sorts of reading matter. But it's funny that even though I have a good deal of books there is always one I don't have. Last year there was a book drive during which 854 books were donated to my shelves.

Last year there were 194 books bought for me and that brings my collection total to 11,041 books. I subscribe to 30 magazines and donations make this list almost complete for reading demands.

But this year I haven't seen much in the way of donations and there will be no drive. I am anxious to continue growing. Don't mind that spread one bit. Donations, books and money, are important to me too because that is how the main of reading matter arrives on my shelves.

True, there is some money left over from the fund for salaries and expenses supported by the city and county, and this is spent on books and book repairs. But the rest is left up to you.

The county and city pay for the librarians' salaries. The county pays for the electricity and gas, and the city pays for the water. Latest improvements are the sprinkling system put in by the city and Rezor heating systems put in by the county.

I'm proud of my memorial shelf which was donated by the Sue Hite Club in memory of Ola Davis Hill. Another memorial shelf is continually filling with books in memory of the town's loved ones. The librarians, Mrs. Chester Pierle and Mrs. Doris Bosley, send cards to the families concerned when a book is placed on the memorial shelf.

As the Randall County Library, I can boast a book shelf on Texas, one on current books such as After You Marco Polo and Inside Africa, shelves on children books, encyclopedias and research books. The complete set of Current Biography causes a beam of self pride.

And speaking of new things, I might say I have a new card catalogue. And in my files are indexed magazines dating back to 1935, complete with Reader's Guide.

Now this is what a respectable library is supposed to have. But I can remember when . . . oh, it's been a slow story. My first home was in the court house, small, crowded and meager I was. But it was a good start begun by the Woman's Book Club with the action of several women such as Mrs. Clyde W. Warwick, Mrs. S. L. Ingham, and Irene Angel.

Shortly after the war, Woman's Book Club, Sue Hite Club and county working, I moved to my present home. A barrack was refinished, outside and in, and here I am.

I have a library board which meets the first Tuesday of each month. At present Mrs. Walter Graham is the county representative, Dan Sanders is the city representative, and other members Borden Price, treasurer from Sue are Mrs. Pierle, librarian, Mrs. Hite, Mrs. Joe Gibson, chairman from Woman's Book Club, Mrs. R. P. Jarrett Jr., Sue Hite, Edna Graham, Woman's Book Club, and Mrs. Dorothy McClure, secretary from Sue Hite.

The commissioners appoint the county and city representatives and the Sue Hite and Woman's Book Clubs appoint the remainder of the board members.

Just how am I being used? Well, in 1955, 141 readers were added to the book loan roster. The total number of deposit readers in 1955 was 759 (a $1 deposit is required for out of town borrowers). Refunds on deposit cards amounted to $20 and with the amount transferred because of non-use for a period of one year, the total was $22.

My total circulation for 1955 was 12,237. On the average month, periodicals were the largest group (317), and juvenile books (293) came in second in preference. Fiction (235) was next and last in circulation was non-fiction (175).

Now here I am just sitting and thinking about myself. And first of all I'm wondering what's ahead for me. The more I think about it, the more projects I can see in sight.

The other day I overheard some women discussing the possibility of organizing a children's story book hour for the summer. Now that seems like a fine idea for the children who like to hear stories in a cool room on a hot summer day, and a nice project for some person who enjoys telling stories.

Then too it might be nice to have a vacuum cleaner. This is Texas and that last duster was no joke when it came to cleaning up 11,041 books, the shelves, floors and windows. The job was done but a vacuum cleaner would have made things a lot easier.

The welcoming by-word of this library and of my librarians, Mrs. Pierle, main librarian, and Mrs. Bosley, assistant librarian, is "May I help you?"

A rephrasing of those words would read, "May you help me?" Indeed you may. If there are any volumes you collected this winter that you don't need, perhaps you received repeats through book clubs, the library would be glad to receive them.

And by the way, ya'll come.

Noble effort

One of the town's small fry had quite a problem the other day. Seems he had the misfortune of yielding to the temptation of doing the forbidden—writing on doors with a pencil.

As his punishment, he had to solve the problem of erasing the marks. But he had a little trouble, and pretty soon came the call, "Mommy, this eraser won't work."

How was he to know chalk erasers work only on blackboards?

☆ ☆ ☆

Correction please

My apology to Alma Paegle and family who I said were from Poland. They are not Polish, but are Latvians, having lived in Riga, Latvia, where they were teachers.

And my thanks to Mrs. Geraldine Green for this information.

☆ ☆ ☆

Monaco, home of nee Grace Kelly and Prince Ranier, has had its share of publicity. And such a lot for such a small country.

Mrs. Clyde Warwick, who traveled in Europe last summer, says that she estimated that the country was no wider than the distance from her house to the college which is about one-half of a mile.

☆ ☆ ☆

That time of year is here again when all the ladies begin digging in the back of the closet or chests for warm weather clothes and start pushing back heavy woolens.

Isn't it surprising how good those clothes look and remember how glad we were to put them away last fall and start wearing sweaters, tweeds and coats?

Of course, in storing away the winter's wardrobe, there is a right and wrong way. It may be fun to dispose of the problem with a quick and careless hand but it's not so funny when you discover that your favorite sweater has been keeping the moths supplied in calories for about three months.

Giles E. Hopkins, technical director of the Wool Bureau, Inc., says moth control is very simple. The simplest procedure is to look for moth resistant labels when you buy.

But you may not always buy moth resistant treated clothes, and those you have may be susceptible. In that case, Mrs. Hopkins suggests that you have a moth-resistant treatment applied to your clothes each time you send them to be dry cleaned.

When you store clothes, be sure they are clean, wrap the garments in heavy paper, and seal securely both the garment bags and whatever the clothes are stored in. This means no cracks, a twenty-fifth of an inch is too much.

Mrs. Hopkins does not advocate the use of moth balls, but if you must use something that smells, he advises paradichlorobenzene or napthalene, about one ounce in the ordinary size garment bag. It adds extra protection for clothes and storage cases.

About the moth's personal life. Lady, or fellow, you can carry on a massive moth massacre, armed to the teeth with fly swatter, boards, B-B guns or knives and it won't do you a bit of good. That furry winged creature you see fluttering around your house is an innocent man. If you want to catch him redhanded you have to sneak up on him when he is in the worm or larvae stage.

After the moth gets his wings, he is past the adolescent stage of fanciful gnawing on prized woolens.

So watch for the moths when they are in the worm stage or better, in the egg stage. Shake clothes and drapes often. Vacuum, wash or dry clean suspected areas. And an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, so seal up cracks in closets, walls and floors and keep an eagle eye out for grease; remember upholstery when vacuuming.

If you already have a vigorous infestation, besides vacuuming, dry cleaning and laundering, you might try a spray with 5% DDT and send upholstery to a factory storage where they offer fumigation services.

An interesting note in Giles E. Hopkins' book said that "the smell of printer's ink is believed by many to counterbalance the appeal of even the most luscious woolens when they are wrapped in back issues of the Morning Clarion."

☆ ☆ ☆

For easy fried pies, use canned biscuits. Roll them out to about one-eighth inch, place fruit or jelly in center, fold over and seal with fingers. Brown in hot fat and serve.

☆ ☆ ☆

Don't forget to give your children polio shots. It will soon be that time of year, and the health board reports Texas parents are a little slow in getting the job done.

Lady called up Internal Revenue office in Knoxville, Tenn., and asked, "Do you figure sales tax on the dollar or on the gallon?" Hung up. Agents are wondering: whisky or gasoline?

There's a New 'Art' to Patching Up Small Fry

BY EDNA MILES

MOTHERS who must stop daily in the midst of such "tiny" tasks as cleaning the entire house or doing the family laundry to patch up minor injuries suffered by the small fry know what it means to try to quiet a frightened child.

And even minor accidents frighten small children. But once the fear of pain and the slight sense of shock are gone, they love showing off. A bandage is a fine device for getting attention from other kids and the whole neighborhood. It's a conversation piece in the same sense as the latest charm on mother's bangle bracelet.

Knowing this, one manufacturer has produced colored adhesive first-aid bands illustrated with clowns, animals, toys and storybook characters. The bands are, of course, sterile, water-resistant and protective.

Aside from keeping a small wound clean, which any adhesive band will do, they are intended to quiet the child and divert his attention from a cut finger or bruised knee. And this, in turn, will take the weight from mother and allow her to get back to the vacuum cleaner or the family laundry hamper.

"Doctor" tapes up mommy's finger with one of the new, illustrated adhesive bands. They're designed to switch a child's attention from painful aspects of a hurt to "prestige" advantages of wearing a bandage.

Fashion Draws a Sheath Line

BY EDNA MILES

THE sheath line, in some variation, is the important line for spring and summer.

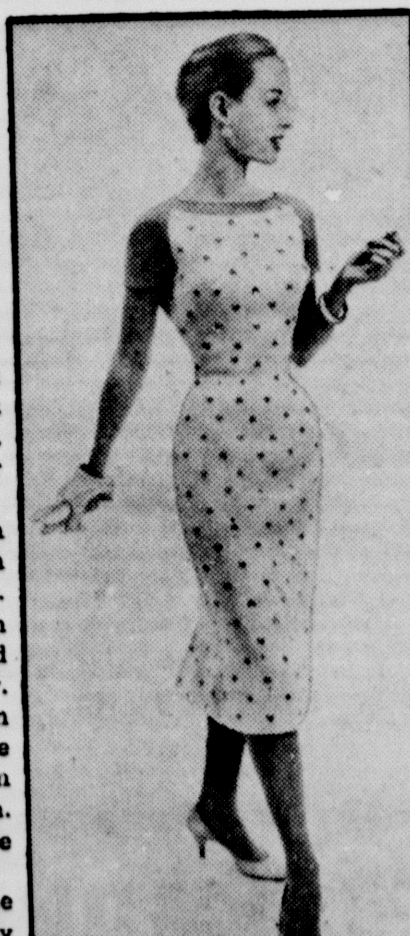
Spiced by sleeve interest or little jackets or neckline interest, it's very different from the narrow tube of the past.

It's narrow, all right, but it fits the body with curves. It isn't reminiscent of the flapper. It's feminine and it can be either sophisticated or young.

For summer, it will vie with the fuller skirts. Many women feel that the wider skirt is cooler. On the other hand, many women feel that nothing is as cool and slick as the sheath on a hot day.

Sheaths are cut, this year, in every fabric imaginable. But the two that most American women will buy are linen and cotton. Both look and feel cool; both are perennial favorites.

While the linen often will be cut from a solid color, it may also be combined with a pretty print or embroidered figure this year. Then shoes or gloves (but not both) can be chosen to pick up and repeat one of the colors in the print.



Summer sheath in white moygashel linen features tiny blue heart print and solid blue top. It's fashioned by Will Saunders in junior sizes.

State Capitol NEWS

An all-out campaign to elect Texas' Senior Senator, Lyndon Johnson, to the presidency of the United States, is under way.

It isn't just a drive to name him chairman of the Texas delegation. It isn't just a "favorite son" compliment. It definitely is an all-out effort to elect a Texan as President, on the Democratic ticket.

Held high as proof that it can be done is the 1952 election to the Presidency of Texas-born Dwight D. Eisenhower on the Republican ticket.

Popular Tom Miller, Austin's mayor, has been chosen to co-chairman the campaign, with Austin philanthropist and realtor E. H. Perry Sr.

Endorsements already received from out-of-state national figures indicate that the "favorite son" movement, which had been gaining momentum, has outgrown its Texas boundaries.

Johnson also is being boosted as chairman of the Texas delegation to the Democratic national convention in Chicago. Selection of a chairman will be made at the May 22 state Democratic convention in Dallas.

Gov. Allan Shivers, who also has been recommended to lead the delegation, pointed out Johnson as presidential timber as far back as 1954. However the two have clashed over the chairmanship.

Johnson has said he would accept both the designation as chairman of the delegation, and as Texas' favorite son candidate for President.

Shivers said he would serve as chairman, but is not interested in the favorite son role.

Over the state both sides are working to get their supporters to the May 5 precinct conventions.

Races Taking Shape

A rapid-fire series of announcements is fast bringing the summer political campaign into focus.

James P. Hart will not run for governor. The former Supreme Court Justice said he did not find enough financial support. Barring the unexpected, Austin Attorney Ralph W. Yarborough will be the only Liberal candidate for governor.

Will Wilson, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, announced for attorney general. John Ben Shepperd is vacating that job. Judge James R. Norvell of San Antonio promptly announced for Wilson's post.

Now campaigning for Congressman-at-Large is W. F. "Bill" Elkins, formerly of Killeen, and now a Dallas real estate man.

In the Lt. Governor's race for the first time, and with a strong organization, is Sen. A. M. Aikin of Paris, one of the sponsors of the Gilmer-Aikin school bill.

Busy campaigning for re-election are Judge W. A. Morrison of the Court of Criminal Appeals; and Supreme Court Justice Meade F. Griffin.

Actively seeking Jesse James' post as State Treasurer is Warren G. Harding of Dallas.

High Polio Rate Feared

Texas may be headed for a major polio epidemic in 1956 unless vaccinations speed up, say State Health Department officials.

Doctors have been urged to use all available supplies of Salk vaccine, immediately.

Number of cases already has hit 181 as compared to 114 for this time in 1955. Only four of the victims had received shots. Of the 1956 cases, 96 were paralytic.

Some 90,000 new polio shots have been earmarked for shipment to Texas. Less than one-third of Texas children under 20 have received shots, says the Health Department. An estimated 962,415 children and pregnant women have had at least one shot, but there are 3,542,200 who are eligible.

Work Law Action Taken

Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd had moved to protect Texas "right to work" law.

He asked the U. S. Supreme Court to postpone ruling on a similar Nebraska case until fall. By then he hopes the Texas law, now involved in a suit in the State Supreme Court, can be considered jointly. He also filed a "friend of the court" brief supporting the Nebraska law.

In the Texas suit unions contend the National Railway Labor Act authorizes closed shop contracts, which Texas law prohibits.

State Streams Dwindling

Rainfall which statewide averaged only 23 per cent of normal has brought many Texas streams and wells to all-time lows.

"Deficient streamflow and dwindling conservation storage has magnified the seriousness of the persistent drouth," said the State Board of Water Engineers.

Rural Co-op Wins Suit

A Texas rural electric co-operative may continue to serve an area after it is annexed by a city. So ruled the Third Court of Civil Appeals.

Upshur Rural Electric Co-operative Corporation was aligned against Southwestern Gas and Electric Company. At issue was whether the co-op could operate in an area annexed by the city of Gilmer.

Fifty-four other REA co-ops joined Upshur in the suit. They won not only the right to serve the customers who were members at the time of annexation, but to serve new customers along their lines, even in the city.

Short Snorts

April 22 to 28 has been designated as Military Reserve Week in Texas by Governor Shivers. Some 19 patriotic organizations will conduct a drive for enlistments in the Armed Forces Reserve.

District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of Duval County won his fight against disbarment, in the State Supreme Court.

H. H. Coffield of Rockdale has been named executive committee chairman for Region 9 of the Boy Scouts of America, which includes Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Col. Morris S. Schwartz, selective service director, reports that 12,023 persons entered the armed forces from Texas during the first quarter of 1956, and that 12,903 received discharges.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Considerable criticism is levelled at Sen. William Knowland by so-called intellectuals. The senator's chief trouble seems to be he insists on calling a spade a spade instead of another.

* * *

C. W. Harder

He probably inherits this practical realism from a father who built a very successful newspaper in Oakland, California, and did so well at the job that a major chain publisher found a few years ago there was no room for him in Oakland. So Senator Knowland knows what it takes to meet a payroll.

* * *

Therefore, when Sen. Knowland spoke out in New York recently on proposed plans to engage in a long range ten year foreign giveaway program he attracted a great deal of attention that will be reflected on Capitol Hill when new plan for global boondoggling is debated.

* * *

"I question their right," he said, "to get long term government-to-government grants and loans which keep adding debt and tax burdens to the American free enterprise camel to the point where its back is broken."

* * *

He was referring to many foreign nations who are taking stand they will stay neutral only if Uncle Sam shells out to them.

* * *

He also warned U. S. economic strength is vital to entire free world; that if U. S. collapses because of foreign giveaways, entire free world will also collapse.

* * *

Sen. Knowland also issued pointed reminder to government.

* * *

• If reappraisal of foreign giveaways is not undertaken by executive branch of government, or by Congress, he said, "it will be done on the Main Streets of America."

* * *

Many other senators are taking this same viewpoint, including influential Sen. Walter George.

* * *

At a time when government places credit controls on American economy, it is proposed to put U. S. taxpayers in debt for ten years on a long range giveaway program.

* * *

The $70 billion already given away does not appear to have made lasting impression in building worldwide democratic concepts. Italy is good example.

* * *

Italy has received something like $5 billion. When it appeared Italy was economically bankrupt forever, nation gave evidence of turning toward democratic free enterprise beliefs.

* * *

But then oil was discovered in Italy whose U. S. gifts had included a lot of free oil. In fact, experts feel there is sufficient promise in Italian oil discovery to change a "have not" nation into a prosperous one.

* * *

But what happened to the free enterprise lessons taught Italy with $5 billion in U. S. giveaway funds? It appears to have gone down the drain faster than anybody could say "Garibaldi" because it was decided almost immediately control of these oil fields would be taken over by a government petroleum monopoly with free enterprise barred.

* * *

But Italy still wants aid.

* * *

Indeed, it would like more U. S. billions to help it develop a socialistic petroleum industry. The poor beggar is now ready to become a rich beggar as long as those "crazy Americans" will stand for it.

Honoree Pleased But Not Puzzled About 'Surprise' Compliment Friday

There was a turntable surprise at the birthday party Friday afternoon which honored Mrs. Mary Burtz.

About 2:30 p. m., guests arrived at the home of Mrs. Fleda Waldrop for the affair which had been planned as a surprise for Mrs. Burtz by Mrs. Waldrop and Mrs. Martha Canada.

About 3 p. m., Mrs. Burtz entered wearing a peacock blue taffeta dress and rhinestone jewelry and escorted by her daughter, Helen Davis. Immediately following the song-greeting of "Happy Birthday," she smiled and said, "I thank you, but like I told my daughter, Helen, this is a frame-up."

She had discovered the secret, but appeared just as pleased as ever. She was sympathetic too, saying that "I helped give a surprise party last year too, and it's just not funny." It seems her plans had also backfired.

To congratulate the honoree on her 73rd birthday, guests presented her with gifts among which were lace handkerchiefs, towels, stationery, and a cook and carry pan.

Following the opening and inspection of gifts, refreshments of large confetti angel food cakes, pastel mints and punch were served by Jan Waldrop and Mrs. Marvin McBroom. The refreshment table was laid with a white, lace, cutwork cloth over white and was centered with pink hydrangea which were presented to Mrs. Burtz.

Signing the white and silver guest book, which was a gift to the honoree, were Lillian Fain, Laura B. Hutton, Martha Penick, Mrs. Marvin McBroom, Mrs. T. V. Slack, Mrs. A. B. Russell, Mrs. R. T. Bowman, Mrs. Lela V. Gilbert, Mrs. W. G. Rose, Bessie Eby, Columbia Redfearn, Mrs. G. B. Combs, Mrs. G. W. Cox, Mrs. Myrtle Wester, Mrs. B. C. Taylor Sr., Mrs. J. E. Mickey, Mrs. Helen Davis, Janis Waldrop, Mrs. C. W. Dunn and the hostesses.

Wayside H. D. Club Sees Clothes Storage

The Wayside H. D. Club met for a delayed meeting with Mrs. Aaron Cummins Wednesday. Mrs. Robert Adams had charge of the program.

Mrs. Willie Modisette and Mrs. Paul Wetzel assisted with storage of clothing and spot removing. Mrs. Melton McGehee had charge of the recreation period.

Refreshments were served to Cora Bell Roberts, Othella McGehee, Aline Adams, Bernice Hamblen, Mickey Rogers, Billy Bible, Virlie Wetzel, Delores Allen, Ina McGehee, Leatha Adams, Doreen Modisette, the hostess and several children.

COULDN'T TELL

A witness was being questioned during a charge of assault.

"You saw these men fighting," said the magistrate. "Why didn't you go to the assistance of the defendant?"

"Well, sir," replied the witness, "at that time it was impossible to foresee which would be the defendant."

GIDDAP!

Two farmers met on the road. "Si, I've got a mule with distemper. What did you give that one of yours when he had it?"

"Turpentine, Giddap."

A week later they met again. "Say, Si, I gave my mule turpentine and it killed him."

"It killed mine, too, Giddap."

General Motors' sales reached almost 12½ billion dollars last year, a record. Net income passed the billion-dollar mark for the first time in the corporation's history.

Area Students Win at Region

The Canyon High School team placed second in the journalism contest at the Interscholastic League Regional Meet in Lubbock Saturday and Charlotte Crain gained second place in the individual journalism contest.

Jim Flynn took second place in extemporaneous speech and Jeannette Oldham was 10th in typewriting.

Wayne Cole of Happy was first in Poetry reading for conference B schools.

SURPRISE

Tenderly nursing his swollen face, the man hurried down the street and anxiously rang the bell of the new dentist's house. While he was waiting for the door to be opened he literally danced with pain.

"You wish to see the dentist?" asked the wife who eventually opened the door. "Could you possibly come back again tomorrow morning?"

"T-to-to-tomorrow m-m-morning," the man gasped, his eyes rolling, "b-b-but my t-t-tooth—"

"Oh, please do," interrupted the lady, looking at him coyly.

"You see, you're his very first patient and I'd like you to be a surprise for him tomorrow, as it is his birthday."

A MENTAL SLIP

"Did you have a nice walk, Phillis?"

"Oh, yes, mummy. And we saw the funniest man!"

"Really, dear? How was that?"

"He was sitting on the sidewalk talking to a banana skin."

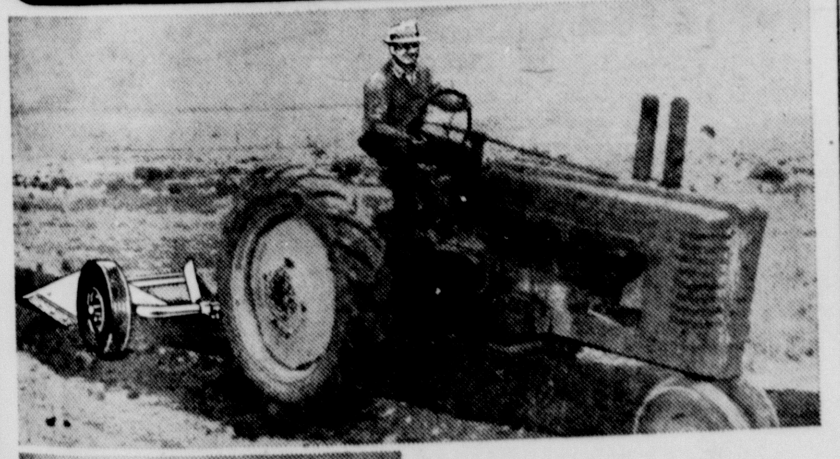
Eversman MODERN, RUBBER MOUNTED FLOATING-HITCH DITCHER



"Finest Ditcher Ever Built!"
Says John Bradley

I have found my Eversman Ditcher one of the finest I have ever used. The wide, clean ditch it makes carries plenty of water. I like the feature of having a one-man ditcher. I like the way it transports, no lifting or loading. I get away from a lot of shoveling by being able to back the ditcher into another ditch and pull away. The water follows.

By removing the ditcher blades and putting on an Eversman sub-soiler I have deep-chiseled 50 acres. This was a lot cheaper than buying a separate sub-soiler chisel. I pulled it at a depth of about 18" with ease with my three-plow tractor.

- Make or clean ditches yourself with the Eversman. Now available in two sizes. Mechanical or Hydraulic Control for any standard farm tractor.
- For pan-breaking slip the ditcher wing off the beam and install the Eversman Pan-Breaker. Under favorable conditions your farm tractor will pull the pan-breaker at a depth of from 14" to 20".

Tornado Network Explained to Lions

Showing a film of a tornado last summer in Scotts Bluff, Neb., H. C. Winburn and Bob Orton, weathermen at the Amarillo Weather Station, and Dick Bay, weatherman for KFDA-TV, presented the program for the Canyon Lions Club last week.

Explaining the weather bureau's system of warning areas about possible tornadoes, Orton said that there are two definite steps that are followed.

The first warning given is a tornado forecast, which simply says that tornadoes are possible within a given area, usually not less than 20,000 square miles, Orton said.

When such a forecast is issued, a volunteer observer network begins operation, he said. The observers watch the clouds for funnels and report any funnels they see.

If a funnel is sighted, the weather bureau traces its direction of movement and speed and warns any communities in its path, Orton said. Orton emphasized that the weather bureau is helpless to track a tornado without the observer network. He said the radar can scan only moisture patterns, and not funnels.

Orton said Canyon is covered by observers in Tulia, Happy, Hereford, Umbarger and Palo Duro State Park.

At 10:45 p. m. Friday, KFDA-TV will take viewers inside the Amarillo Weather Bureau station for a first-hand glimpse of the way government weather forecasts are made.

Winburn and Bay will conduct a tour of the station and show the various facilities. The station is planning other remote telecasts of the weather bureau.

Sun Power

Probably all of us can remember flashing messages with a mirror on a bright, sunny day. Or maybe you burned holes in dry leaves.

Well, we were all using "sun power." A simple form of it, yes. But it was still power from the greatest source of energy man has ever known — the sun.

For years, we've been reading about how men have been trying to capture and put to work the sun's energy. And telephone scientists, just in the past few months, have come up with the first workable device to do the job. It's called the Bell Solar Battery.

Believe it or not, the heart of the Bell Solar Battery is common ordinary sand. From this sand, silicon disks are made which can convert sunlight into electrical power.

How will the Bell Solar Battery affect your telephone service? Really, we don't know yet. But right now, an experimental installation of solar batteries is supplying power on rural telephone lines in another part of the country. This experiment may give us some answers.

Regardless of the future of the Bell Solar Battery, it is already proof of one thing. Telephone scientists will go to any lengths to find ways of improving your service.

This time they've even brought the sun into the act.

The Miles Flash By

When you pick up the receiver of your telephone to make a Long Distance call, you're turning hours or days into seconds.

That's because a Long Distance call puts you in touch almost instantly with friends or relatives in a distant city.

As well as being the best way to keep in touch any time, a Long Distance call is also a happy thought for a special occasion - such as a birthday, anniversary, wedding or just a family get-together. You can talk as long as you like because long Distance rates are low, especially if you call station-to-station. Remember, also, to call by number. Your calls will go through twice as fast.

Welcome Mat Is Out

From time to time, individuals or groups stop in at the telephone company to learn how we do things - and to see what's behind their telephone service.

If you'd like to do the same with friends or a business or social group, just call me. I'll be happy to plan a visit for you.

Call by number. It's twice as fast.

PURINA RESEARCH TESTS SHOW

AN EXTRA $10-$15 PER HEAD RETURN

...when Steer Fatena with stilbestrol is fed

During recent years, tests on hundreds of cattle at Purina's Research Farm proved stilbestrol, Micro-Mixed just right into Purina Steer Fatena, is a money-maker for the cattle feeder. Here are the average results from all their tests when Purina Steer Fatena with stilbestrol was fed:

	Control lots	Stilbestrol-fed lots
Average daily gain	2.37 lbs.	2.65 lbs.
Average dressing percent . .	61½%	62%

Tests also prove that stilbestrol is not a food nutrient . . . is no substitute for a good ration. Results are disappointing when stilbestrol is fed with rations of poor balance or quality.

When you empty a bag of supplement in your feed bunks, you are counting on getting your money back—and more besides—in increased daily gains at lowered costs. But before you lay down your hard cash for a supplement, it pays to know the facts about the feed you choose.

We have the latest information on Purina Steer Fatena feeding programs. Whatever you feed in the way of grain, silage or roughage—there's a research-proved Steer Fatena to help you get the most from your operation. Stop by soon and we'll tell you more about Micro-Mixed Purina Steer Fatena, a feedlot favorite for more than 25 years.

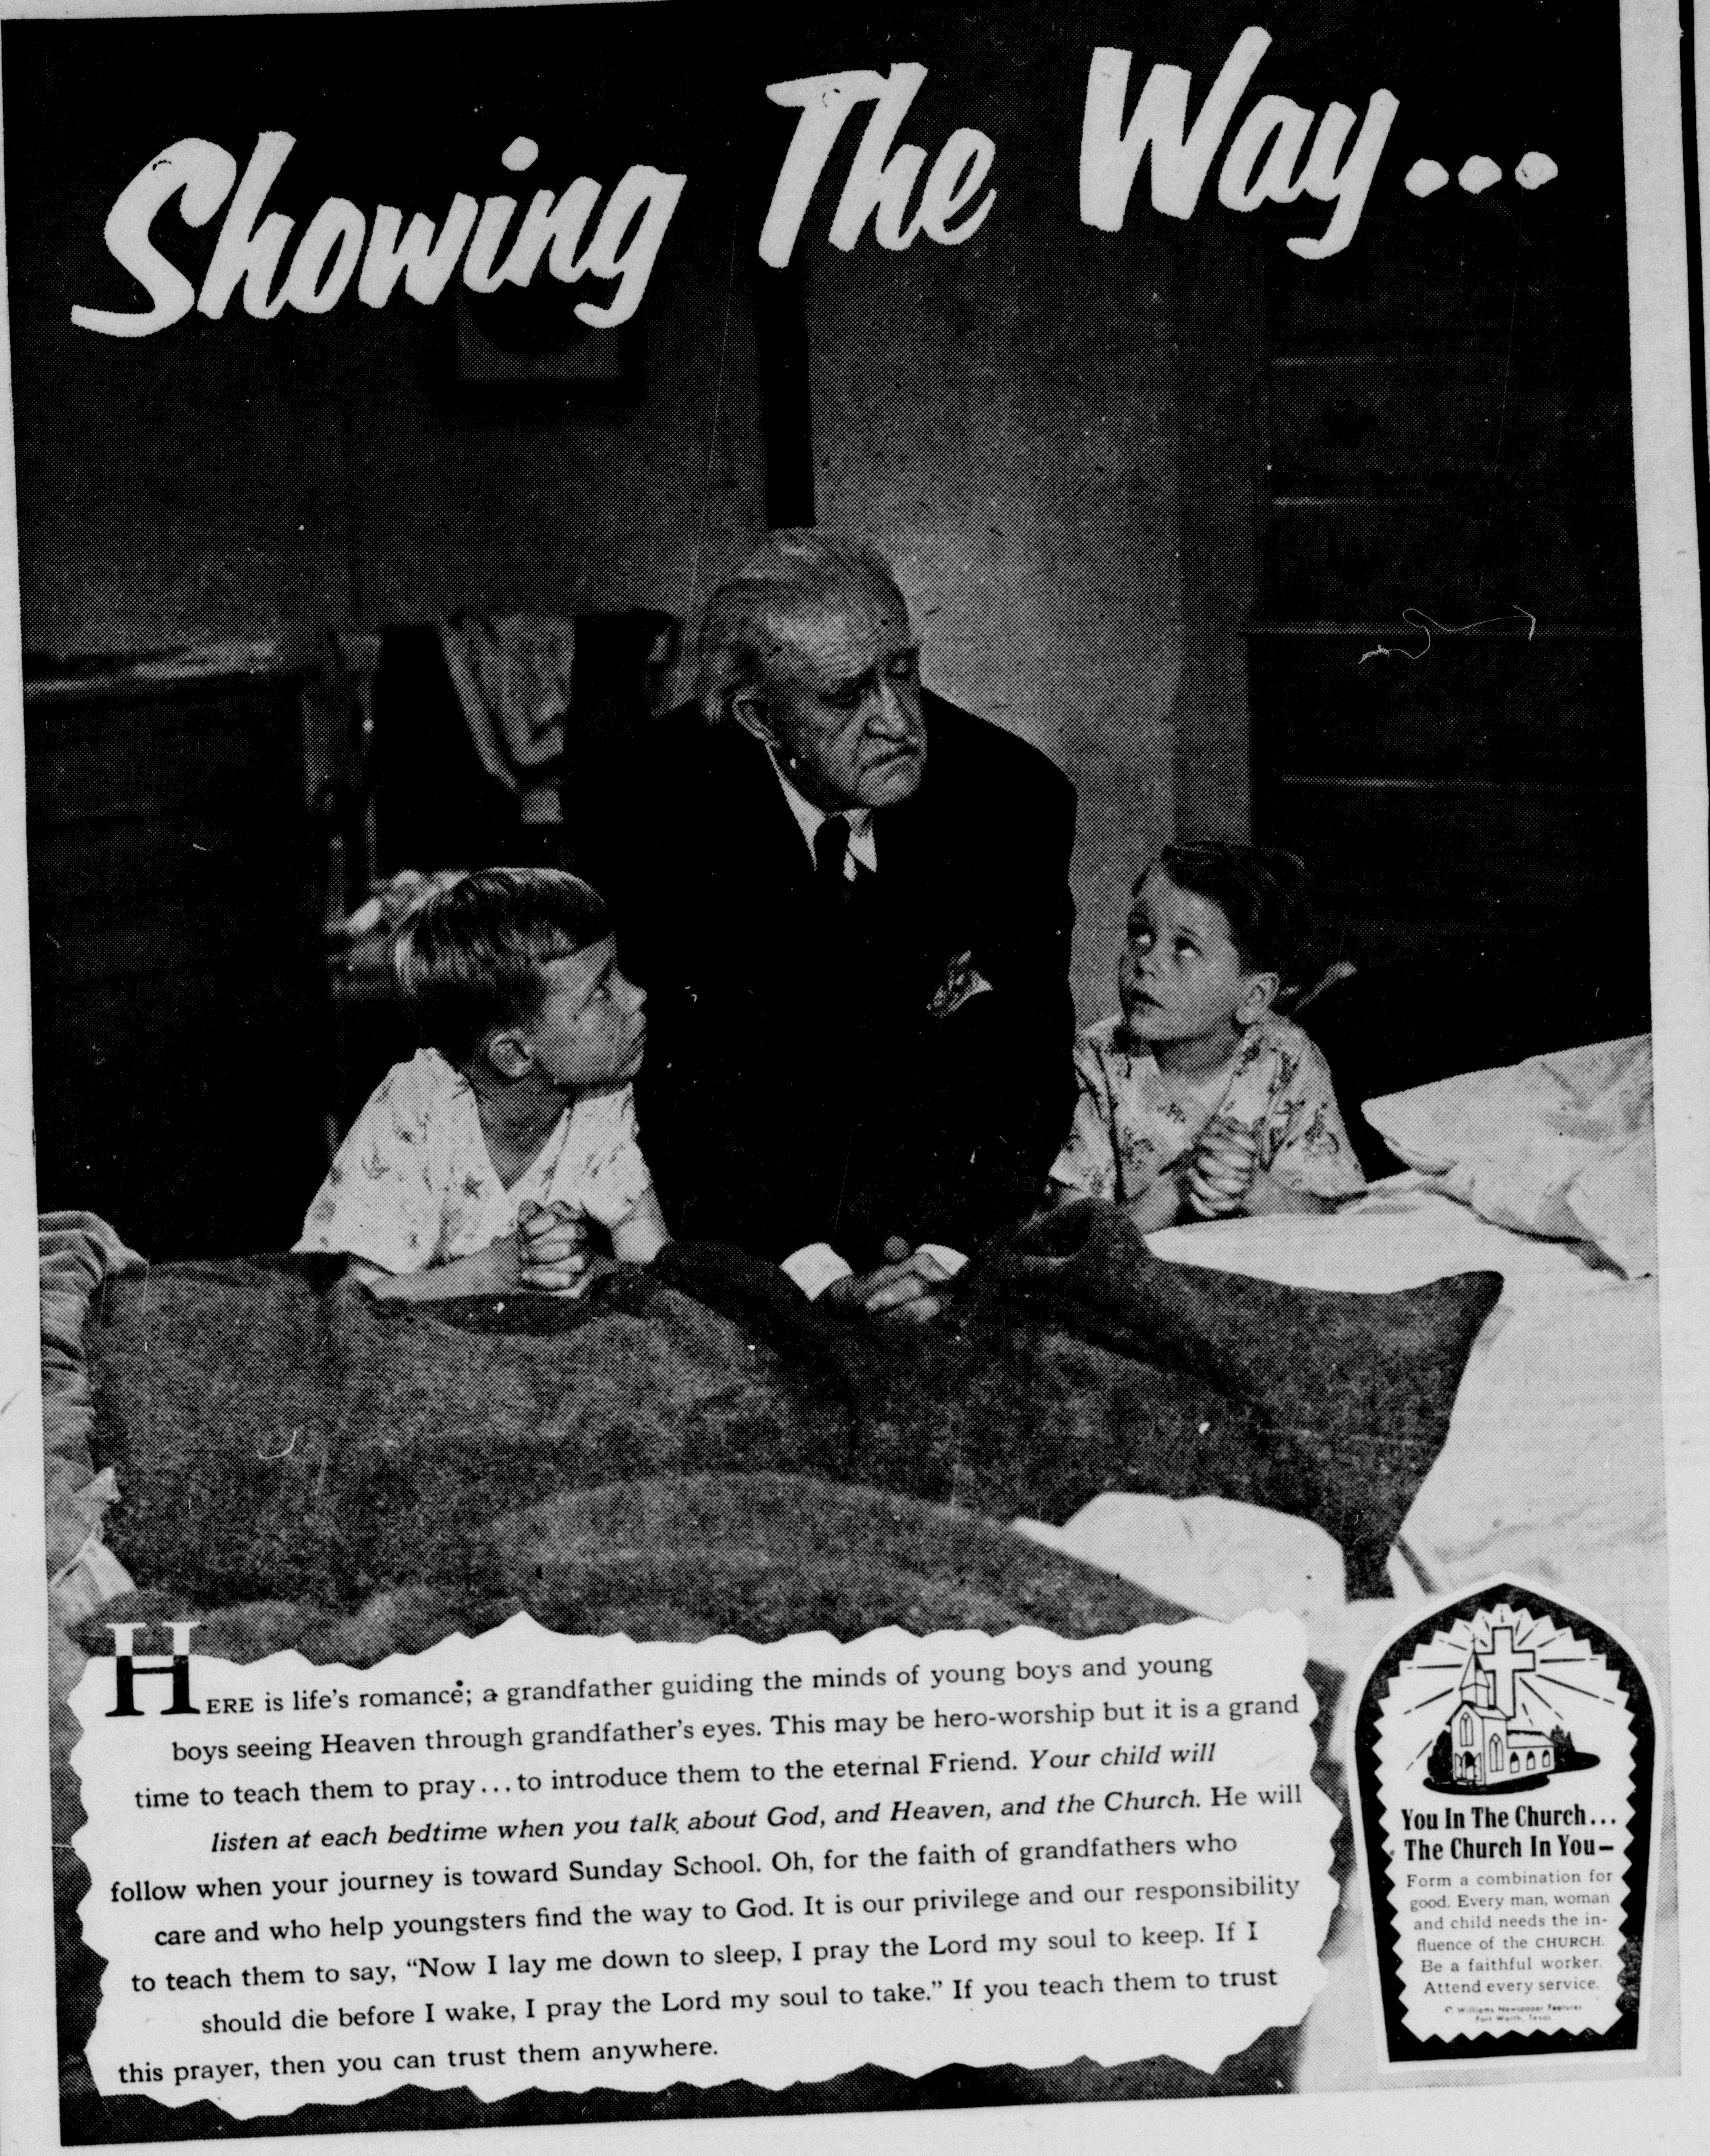
Showing The Way...



HERE is life's romance; a grandfather guiding the minds of young boys and young boys seeing Heaven through grandfather's eyes. This may be hero-worship but it is a grand time to teach them to pray... to introduce them to the eternal Friend. Your child will listen at each bedtime when you talk about God, and Heaven, and the Church. He will follow when your journey is toward Sunday School. Oh, for the faith of grandfathers who care and who help youngsters find the way to God. It is our privilege and our responsibility to teach them to say, "Now I lay me down to sleep, I pray the Lord my soul to keep. If I should die before I wake, I pray the Lord my soul to take." If you teach them to trust this prayer, then you can trust them anywhere.

You In The Church... The Church In You—

Form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the CHURCH. Be a faithful worker. Attend every service.

REFRIGERATED AUTO AIR CONDITIONING

Yes, you really can step out of your car looking your best — even on the hottest day. This modern young woman does it. All of her smartness isn't in her looks . . . she's had her car equipped with a Mark IV. The air is cool and dry. Windows are closed against wind and noise, dust or dampness.

While others arrive wind blown and humidly limp, she steps out as smoothly groomed as when she left her dressing table. She's at her best all summer long.

Makes a Mark IV auto air conditioner well worth considering, doesn't it? Only $295 or $345, plus installation. Excise tax already paid.

'Little Brown Church in Vale' Making Strong Comeback in Some State Areas

COLLEGE STATION—The rural church is making a strong comeback in many Texas areas, says Reagan Brown, rural sociologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Brown spends a great deal of time working with the leaders in the organized communities of the state and reports that a contributing factor to the comeback of the rural church is the part it is playing in rebuilding community spirit and fellowship.

A motivating force behind this change has been the rural pastor, says Brown. They are working with local county extension agents in expanding the community improvement programs which include the spiritual as well as the economic and social aspects of rural living.

Brown points out that the pastor is no stranger in this type of work for agriculture is often referred to in the Bible and Christ in his teachings used many parables taken from his observations of the shepherd and the farmer.

Because of a demand for training in basic agriculture from young men going into missionary and church work in rural areas a pre-seminary course in this field is being offered through the Department of Agricultural Economics and Sociology of Texas A. and M. College.

Brown reports that the course has proved popular with young men who desire information in agricultural know-how as related to their chosen work.

Brown also believes that county extension agents and the rural ministers have a lot in common in their work with rural people and that by working together rural living will be enhanced.

In addition to the basic courses in agriculture, they are given a wide range of elective work in agricultural economics, religion and other fields.

The specialist believes that a rural minister who is a real spiritual leader in the community can do an even more effective job if he can give assistance on the problems which farm families face each day.

Wondering how to get some seemingly impossible task accomplished? Leave several small boys in the vicinity of the job and tell them "don't touch" before you walk out of sight.

Until world leaders learn that "peace" isn't spelled "piece," as in "a piece of a neighboring nation," there can't be much hope of even a small slice being hacked from the world's military potential.

REDDY'S Farm Report

FROM THE AGRICULTURAL DEVELOPMENT DEPARTMENT SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY

Elimination of risk with greater assurance of profit from flat storage of grain or seed, on the farm, is possible where the farmer has made provision for aeration of the stored grain.

Aeration prevents excessive moisture from forming on top of the grain and, in addition, cools the grain, thereby preventing insect and small rodent growth. Since grain is usually cut with a moisture content of about 13%, it is practical to maintain that percentage with aeration equipment.

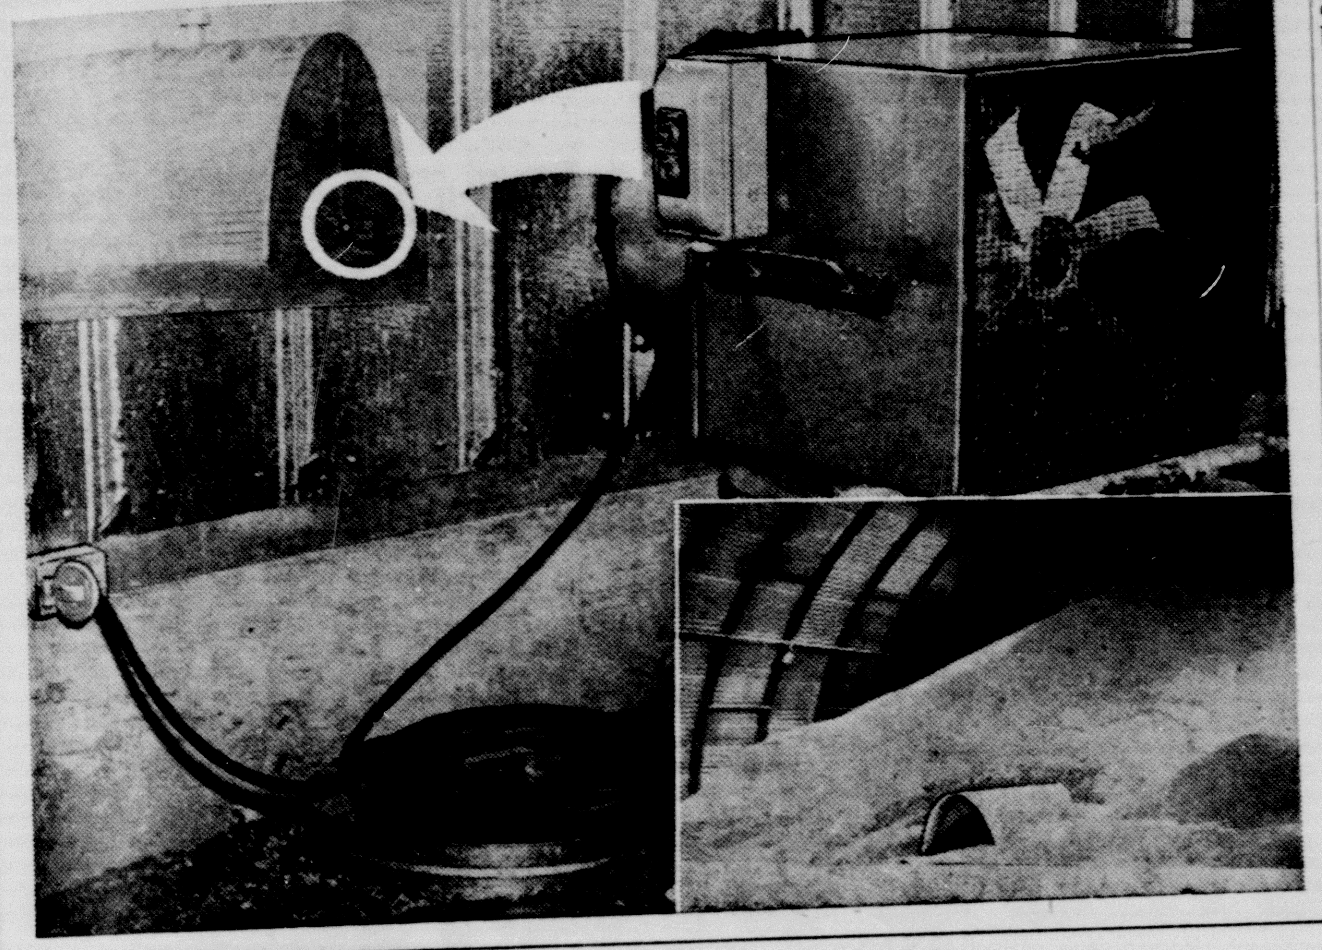
The easiest way to accomplish aeration is to have a well advised installation consisting of a wire mesh tunnel running the length of the storage building, at one end of which is an electrically driven fan capable of pulling or pushing large volumes of air through the grain. Since aeration is simply a matter of cooling and maintaining quality after the grain has been dried to desirable moisture content, good aeration equipment can be used successfully for fumigation.

Some grain growers have attempted to dry high-moisture-content grain with aeration equipment, however, this practice is not recommended because upwards of ten to twenty-five times greater air moving capacity must be employed. In drying, air is "pushed" through the grain rather than "pulled" through as in aerating.

Farmers have found that by storing grain on the farm, with proper anti-spoilage equipment, they have good returns for labor performed, good return on investment through saving the usual storage fees and grain handling costs. In addition, the grower maintains control of his crop, and he can sell whenever the market looks best.

Information on grain storage equipment is available through college agricultural departments and equipment suppliers.

Large picture shows grain aeration equipment on storage building owned by Taft McGee of Hereford, Texas. Inset, upper left, shows another type of grain storage building with aeration equipment on the farm of J. H. Whiteside near Abernathy, Texas. Lower right inset shows method of providing "Tunnel" through grain. Says Taft McGee, "The wise grain producer will investigate the opportunity available through on-the-farm grain storage."



Wayside News

The Rev. Joe Leatherwood filled his regular appointments Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Mahler and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dodson of Vigo Park were dinner guests last Sunday in the Cliff Abbott home in Canyon. Mrs. Abbott was the former Geraldine Dodson and once lived at Wayside.

Mrs. Wiatt Heisler is at home and much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Modisette and Fay were Amarillo shoppers and were buying a tomb stone for their baby's grave Friday.

Mrs. Charles Kennedy and boys, Robert and Richard, were Canyon callers Saturday.

The Tulia Chamber of Commerce sponsored a Stuff 'N Discuss dinner Thursday night at Wayside. The dinner was prepared and served by the Wayside H. D. Club and they also provided the program. Dinner was served at 7:30 p. m. to 30 businessmen from Tulia and 35 Wayside men. The community is very proud of the new tables and chairs, paint job and other things added to the church basement lately.

Mrs. Bertha Mahler has word that her sister, Faye, now Mrs. G. W. Nichols of Tucson, Ariz., has been in a car wreck, breaking her knee in three places, and also breaking her nose.

Bryce Payne, who is stationed in England, has just returned from a five-week training course to Africa.

Mrs. William Cunningham of Pampa has lately had a heart attack. Her daughter, Mrs. Robert Adams, has gone to be with her mother.

A RESOURCEFUL GUY

A married fellow we know recently spent a quiet evening with friends, playing poker. When he got up to go home he was dismayed to see the sun shining brightly.

What would he tell his wife?

At last he hit on the idea. He stepped to the phone, dialed his home number and shouted hoarsely: "It's all right, darling, they let me go. Don't pay the ransom."

Surprised by Joy Will Be Reviewed By Mrs. Cowart

Mrs. Pete Cowart will review a C. S. Lewis book, Surprised by Joy, at a silver tea to be sponsored by the Palo Duro-Rusk Home Demonstration Club Saturday at 3 p. m. in the VFW Hall located one mile west and one mile north of Canyon.

Surprised By Joy, Lewis' most recent literary work, is a religious non-fiction story and is chiefly an autobiographical sketch of Lewis' own search for Christianity. Lewis is a renowned theologian and professor of English at Cambridge.

Mrs. Cowart, who was greatly impressed by the book, says "Surprised By Joy, which is a definite switch from Lewis' usual objective theme, tells the author's story of being born into a Christain family, how he rejected Christianity, became an atheist and embraced several religions before his return by reason to Christianity."

The public is cordially invited and proceeds are for charity.

Neighbors Acquaint At Informal Coffee

An informal mid-morning coffee set the mood for a get-acquainted hour in the home of Mrs. W. J. Wooten Jr. Saturday.

Following a brief introduction and conversation period, women of the neighborhood were served appetizers of fresh strawberries and pineapple wedges which were followed by coffee, toasted cheese strips, and cinnamon tea rolls.

Getting acquainted were Mrs. Meredith Warren, Mrs. Bernard Warren, Mrs. Sam Jolly, Mrs. Bill Fonti, Mrs. Oscar Hinger, Mrs. Hersey Williams, Mrs. Bill Cherry, Mrs. R. F. Phillips and the hostess.

ENEMY IN THE HOUSE

Angus had lived two months in America when he went to see a movie laid in the Canadian wilds. Presently he saw a close-up of a moose.

"I dinna ken what yon beastie is," he remarked to his companion.

His friend explained that it was a moose.

"A moose?" Angus cried. "Aweel if that is a moose, I dinna want to meet an American rat then!"

Five to ten-year-olds can be a real problem at mealtime. And sometimes they go on an "I don't want my milk" spree. I have found the best way to combat those times is plenty of milk in the diet. Try this children's favorite. It's made extra smooth with double-rich Carnation too!
